Former Principal Passes at Lethbridge

Owen Williams, 69, a prominent Southern Alberta educator and superintendent of schools for the Lethbridge School Division No. 7 from its founding in 1936 to 1951, died Monday at his home at 532 15th St. S.

Mr. Williams served as inspector of schools in the Vegreville and Cardston inspectorates prior to coming to Lethbridge.

Born in Wales, he graduated from the University of Wales at Bangor with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He came to Canada with a touring Welsh choir and decided to stay here and continue his teaching career. His first schooling was done in a rural school north of Milo. He served as principal at Ponoka, Claresholm and Coleman.

In 1920 he was made inspector of schools and was in the Cardston inspectorate from 1929 to 1933. He then moved to Vegreville where he stayed for seven years.

In 1931 he was transferred to Lethbridge and was inspector here until the Lethbridge School Division was formed in 1936 when he became superintendent of schools. He held this position until his retirement in 1953.

In addition to playing a prominent part in education, he took an active part in civic organizations in the city.

He was a member of No. 4 North Star Lodge, a member of the Lethbridge Public Library Board, and secretary of the senior citizens' home board. Mr. Williams was a past member of the choir of the former Knox United Church and was a member of the Southminster United Church at the time of his death.

Minerva Chapter O. E. S., Hold Birthday Party

Thursday evening, November 17th, the Minerva Chapter Order of the Eastern Star celebrated their 35th birthday. A program including the Birthday Addenda was presented by members of the Lodge.

Following the program a delicious turkey supper was enjoyed by all. The supper table was beautifully set and decorated. It was centered with a magnificent birthday candles that was cut by Mrs. K. Pawlyk.

The Leta Chapter O.E.S. of Blairmore were special guests for the evening.

You can give your newly decorated kitchen a look of continuity by using leftover pieces of wallpaper to cover kitchen canisters. Cut off short lengths of Scotch tape, roll one end back and under to give a sticky surface all around the tape. Stick these bits of tape at intervals around the top and bottom of the canisters and at the seams. Wrap the wallpaper around, pressing it tightly against the tape to give a smooth appearance.

Fire Claims Life of Coleman Oldtimer

Fire believed to have been caused by an overheated stove which was responsible for the death of Wm. Green, 84, an old timer of Coleman. The three roomed home of Mr. W. Green was completely demolished by the fire despite the efforts of the Volunteer Fire Brigade to put it out. As the house was located in Grafton town outside town water supplies and the firemen had to resort to obtaining water from the wells in the vicinity. This proved inadequate so that the firemen could only do their best to try and save the surrounding buildings. Mr. Wm. Green's body could not be removed from the house owing to the flames and intense heat until after the fire had died down.

Mr. Green has been a resident of Coleman for about 40 years. He worked in the mines here until his retirement some 20 years ago. He was predeceased by his wife several years ago and is survived by two daughters, Louise and Christina of Vancouver.

Funeral services were held for the late Mr. Wm. Green on Nov. 21st in the funeral parlor at Coleman. Rev. Roy Chubb of Blairmore officiated.

Welsh hymns were sung "Aberystowth" and "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

His daughter Mrs. W. Edgar of Vancouver was here for the funeral.

Remains were sent to Calgary for cremation.

During Mr. Edgars stay in the Pass she was a guest of an old time friend Mrs. D. A. Pitt of Blairmore.

Music Winners Perform Recital

Richard S. Eaton, associate professor of music at the University of Alberta, Wednesday evening was praised for his contribution to cultural advancement in the province.

Mr. Grant, in making the presentations of diplomas and awards to Southern Alberta winners, stressed the need for young musicians to have patience, discipline and hard work.

Should Be Disciple

It is necessary for the youths to have a "true understanding" of the word "maestro", Mr. Grant said. The student of music, he added, "should be a disciple of the great masters of music."

Taking part in the recital was a large group of Southern Alberta music students who had won awards. Guest artist for the evening was Gary Miller, Calgary tenor, who sang a selection of three Quilter numbers.

Peter Walker of Lethbridge received a silver medal of the board

Marjorie Wellwood of Lethbridge was awarded the $50 Otto E. Woblick bursary.

Canada storehouse for U.K. wealth during World War II

Canada during the Second World War was the storehouse for a vast share of the United Kingdom's liquid wealth, more than $7,000,000,000 in securities and gold bullion shipped across the Atlantic during Britain's darkest hour.

The story of Sir Winston Churchill's bold gamble to safeguard his country's treasure against the Nazi threat is unfolded in detail in an article by Leonard Stove, a Pulitzer prize winner, in the November issue of the Reader's Digest.

The magazine says the dramatic, daring scheme to transfer the thousands of boxes of securities and gold aboard British warships, crossing an Atlantic infested with Nazi U-boats, was one of the best-kept secrets of the war, though the big operation involved hundreds of persons on both sides of the ocean.

Build special vault

Two principal Canadian figures mentioned in the story are David Mansur, acting secretary of the Bank of Canada early in the war, and Sidney J. Perkins of the foreign exchange control board. Mr. Mansur later became president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and now is head of a big Toronto development corporation. Mr. Perkins now resides in the United States.

The resting place for the securities, with an estimated value of $5,000,000,000, was the lowest of three subterranean levels of the 24-story Sun Life Assurance Company building in Montreal. Construction of a special burglar-proof vault was rushed. Steel was scarce. Two miles of track from an old, forgotten CNR line were ripped up to provide the steel structure.

The billiard, estimated by the Digest at more than $2,000,000,000.

Funny and Otherwise

A farmer was the weekend guest of a man who owned extensive pastures, stables and prize cattle. On his first morning at the house the maid asked him about breakfast.

"Tea, coffee or milk?" she asked.

"Tea," he answered.

"Will you take Ceylon, China or Assam?"

He did not know anything about Assam, so he chose that.

"With milk, cream or lemon?"

"Milk," he said, and thought the matter was settled.

"Yes, sir," said the maid.

"Jersey, Guernsey or Alderney?"

An employer, leaving his office, was instructing his new secretary what to say if any one called while he was out.

"I may be back this afternoon," he told her. "And then again, I may not."

The girl nodded brightly.

"Yes, sir," she said. "Is that definite?"

The local church was so crowded that the pastor decided to have the vergers stand outside with a notice reading: "Chapel Full."

Just then a little bowler-hatted man ran up and wanted to enter. Upon being refused admission he pleaded that he had a very urgent message to deliver to John Smith—it was a matter of life and death. The vergers, a kind old man, eventually succumbed.

"All right," he said. "You can slip in—but Heaven help you if I catch you praying!"

Witty wags wild about wig-wags

LONDON.—Wags are running wild with a new signal alphabet being used by NATO countries and already in use by civil airlines.

Wits are brushing up their Shakespeare to take advantage of revisions which include replacing "Jig" by "Julius" and the famous "Rogues" by "Romans". And "Quebec" is the phonetic name for the letter Q.

This signals conversation has already been detected.

"Hello Romeo, how cam'st thou hither, tell me, and wherefore?"

"With love's light wings did I o'er-perch these walls . . ."

And also this control tower-to-pilot piece of humor.

"Hello Romeo, this is Juliet. By whose direction found'st thou this place?"

"I am no pilot, yet wert thou as far as that vast sea with the furthest sea, I would adventure for such merchandise."

And of course the inevitable one:

"Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou, Romeo?"

"By a name I know not how to tell thee who I am."

The new phonetic alphabet is believed due to the difficulty of some NATO nations in handling the old "Able, Baker, Charlie" system.

Thus the new one runs Alpha, Bravo, Charlie, Delta, Echo, Foxtrot, Golf, Hotel, India, Juliet, Kilo, Lima, Mike, Nectar, Oscar, Papa, Quebec, Romeo, Sierra, Tango, Uniform, Victor, Whiskey, X-ray, Yankee, Zulu. 3166

Pair live on $8.50 per week

SEASIDE, Calif. — If you have trouble maintaining the family food budget, here's the couple to consult.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell P. Hennington recently won a wager by proving that two grown people can eat healthfully for one week for less than $8.50.

The pair, lighter and a "little hungrier" after the experiment, thus found that even the U.S. department of Agriculture sometimes is wrong.

The bout with the budget started when a local newspaper but the Henningtons a free steak dinner they couldn't beat or even equal the $8.56, which the DOA recently found was possible. This minimum was tested by another couple.

Never the type to back down from a dare, the Henningtons' first step was to eliminate cereals from the week's breakfast menus and cut down the number of days Mr. Hennington took meat sandwiches in his lunch pail.

Next the frugal housewife shopped for a cheaper brand of coffee, since both Henningtons are hearty consumers of that beverage.

Other devices employed by the Henningtons: the use of many vegetables in the week's menus and the reduction of milk and sugar in each and every dish. Although much of Mrs. Hennington's food supply was drawn from both the garden and the deep freeze unit, she was careful to record the exact price of each morsel.

Mrs. Hennington gave her husband the greater portion of her "sufficient" if not particularly hearty breakfasts, lunches and dinners. "I ate scantily for lunch, sometimes sharing food used in his (her husband's) lunch and sometimes eating leftovers from dinner the night before," she said.

But he lost two pounds during the economy stretch, while she dropped only four ounces. He now weighs 173 pounds; his wife 149 1/2. The average cost per day was roughly $11.85, well under the department's allowance. Mrs. Hennington said that she exceeded her expense chart only once and this was in fixing rhubarb pie a la mode.

Canada has world's best sub chaser

The $15,000,000 St. Laurent, first of 14 new destroyer escorts being delivered to the navy, may be equipped with guided missiles.

A naval spokesman said the matter now is under consideration. He made the remark as the 2,600-ton St. Laurent made a trial run up the St. Lawrence.

The Canadian navy's first atomic age warship, built in less than five years by Canadian Vickers Ltd., already carries a guided missile of a sort—the homing torpedo.

But she may be fitted out later with surface-to-air and surface-to-surface guided missiles.

Most up-to-date
Rear-Admiral J. G. Knowlton, chief of technical services, told reporters the St. Laurent is "the most up-to-date anti-submarine vessel in the world." It should remain up-to-date "a fair number of years."

There are some pretty revolutionary things about the St. Laurent. One is her design. She has a rounded hull—that is, there are no sharp edges—and she rides lower in the water than the ordinary destroyer.

And the captain no longer fights his ship from the bridge. He operates instead from a room behind and below the bridge and from which he can't see a square inch of sea.

In this room are packed tables and gear which give the captain a complete picture of everything going on around, above and below his ship.

"The captain who used to use his eyes and voice on the bridges now plays a chess game down here," an officer said.

Because there are few portholes, and none on the fighting decks, the ship can be completely sealed against an atomic dusting or chemical attack. She can hose herself down without a man ever having to appear on deck.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

SCRIPTURE TEACHES IMPORTANCE OF THE HOME

The history of America's way of life is full of the records of men who were reared in Christian homes. From humble homes all over the land have come sons and daughters nationally known for their greatness of character and of achievement.

All too often, we have not always given proper credit to the home as a prime influence in moulding these, the great men and women of our times.

Among many other lessons to be found in Scripture are those which exemplify the importance of good homes and Christian family life.

Two instances of this emphasis are to be found in the 16th chapter of Acts.

Lydia, the devout seller of purple, was baptized with her whole household, and when the jailer, about to kill himself because he supposed his prisoners had escaped, asked Paul what he must do to be saved, Paul answered: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house."

And the prime example of all is the life of Jesus with Mary and Joseph, as he grew to manhood in the archetype of all humble Christian homes.

The influence exerted by truly Christian homes is the same today as it was then, and we can only hope, and pray, that more and more homes return to a truly Christian concept of living.

'Woeful' shortage of engineers

A million-dollar survey to find means of relieving a "woeful" shortage of engineers was proposed recently by S. C. Hollister, dean of engineering at Cornell University, in a paper submitted to the annual meeting of the Engineers Council for Professional Development.

He recommended that the council make the study.
Dean Hollister said only 17 per cent of boys reaching 18 have the qualifications to take a professional course and about one-quarter of these go in for engineering. This is woefully short of what is required to keep up with the expanding economy.

Simple device latest wrinkle in campaign against alcoholism

A simple, three-colored cardboard device—a wheel set in a chart—is the latest wrinkle in the campaign against alcoholism being waged by Dr. Gordon Bell, of the Bell Clinic in Toronto.

Known as an Alcolid, the device is described as "a slide rule of alcoholic patterns" and was worked out by Dr. Bell and Dr. J. K. W. Ferguson of Connaught Laboratories.

It isn't a precise instrument, the doctors explain, but it's a valuable educational tool and a help in establishing whether a person's drinking patterns are potentially dangerous.

The Alcolid is quite simple to operate. The worried drinker points an arrow on the wheel to figures corresponding to the number of drinks he's had, refers to his body weight and with a simple bit of calculation involving the time he has been drinking decides where he's heading.

If calculations put him in the red section of the gauge he may be in trouble. If he lands in the yellow, he should use caution. If in the green, he's all right.

Twenty of the gadgets have already been ordered by Ontario Provincial Police, who believe it may be valuable in such things as establishing the truth of statements by drivers about how many drinks they've had.

Principally, however, Drs. Bell and Ferguson see the Alcolid as a means of educating people in good drinking habits and showing the social drinker how his imbibing might get out of hand.

For purposes of the test, an ounce and a half of liquor or a pint of beer constitute a drink. Body weight, Dr. Bell says, has a direct bearing on the blood alcohol level and consequently on the amount a drinker can consume. These and the time factor are expressed in logarithmic curves on the Alcolid, thereby determining a drinker's pattern.

There are several factors which tend to offset the gadget's accuracy in some cases. For example, if a man or woman eats while drinking the blood alcohol level will be lower, and the same holds in cases where drinks are very much diluted.

Dr. Bell said that a drinker's mental attitude can affect his degree of intoxication, too. For instance, a drinker tends to be less intoxicated if mentally or emotionally stimulated when the body secretes substances designed to keep the person alert.

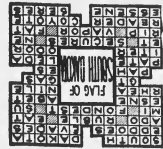

"The Alcolid," he said, "is meant only as a guide to the average drinker in the average situation."

Marciano or Thesz?

Recently, a national magazine asked a number of sports experts: "Could Rocky Marciano beat world heavyweight wrestling champion Lou Thesz?" The answers appeared to be split about 50-50.

This is a problem that has bothered the fight crowd for a long time—can a boxer beat a wrestler? And many years ago, a fight was staged to find out the answer, between world middleweight boxing champion Billy Papke and world middleweight wrestling champion Farmer Burns.

Burns handled Papke very quickly, pinning him and fastening his arms behind his back with his shoelaces.

It appears that unless the boxer can seriously daze the wrestler with his first punch, the wrestler will be able to slap a hold on him. And that's the end of the boxer.

Should you rub a charley horse?

It is not considered wise to rub a charley horse vigorously at any time, but particularly in the first 24 hours following the injury. Hard massage at this time will hinder the healing more than helping it.

A charley horse is a bad bruise in which there is bleeding and seeping of muscle fluid. A flat, hand surface massage can be used if ice is not available, or until the ice can be applied.

Light massage can start 24 hours after the injury is received, at which time it will help get rid of the congestion of broken tissue, blood, muscle fluid and calcium. If the charley horse is particularly severe, such massage should be held off for 48 hours.

COUNTRY DANCING

I read a lot of papers, from all parts of Canada. When I put the information together, it often makes a very strange brew.

For example, I have been reading in several weekly papers the controversies over water works. Such local battles rage at this moment in four communities I know about, from Manitoba to Quebec and Nova Scotia. The younger element are determined to have indoor plumbing, no matter what it costs; but oldsters, on pensions, simply cannot afford to pay for such luxuries. After reading all this, I happened to pick up a copy of the Dalhousie Review in which Robert F. Leggett discussed the ill-fated Massey Report. It was a surprise to me to note the relationship of his article to a fight over water works in Manitou.

Said article, by Mr. Leggett, deplored the very few references, direct and indirect, to the physical basis of life in Canada today to be found in the Report. Well, I have been complaining about the same thing in this newspaper column ever since the Massey Report came out. It was one of the fuzziest reports ever concocted, just what might have been expected from a group of professors with Victorian ideas about art, culture and science.

Ecstatic about Canadian folklore and country dancing, they were completely unaware that a great deal of country dancing these frosty winter nights is done along little paths that lead from the back door of the big house to the little house out back. So they forgot that one of the duties of science is to improve the physical basis of our lives. They turned out a Report which, when implemented, meant spending forty to fifty million dollars a year of our money to see Canadian boys and girls dancing ballet on TV screens.

Perhaps it is true that older folks in small towns can't afford water works. If so, it is a shameful thing that our government spends millions on culture via the C.B.C. and N.F.B., etc. An indoor bathroom is an important part of culture, for my money. Let the Royal Commissioners try a bit of country dancing themselves some January night and they would see the point.

The Chain-Reaction Of 100 Workers

There is a growing concern in some quarters in Calgary about the prospects of attracting new industry to the city.

Several reasons exist for this, one being the fact that more than 300 per cent of the city's labor force find its livelihood in the construction industry. And should any serious decline in the demand for new housing make itself felt the proportion of the labor force affected would have very serious repercussions throughout the community.

This point is well taken because such a situation could occur at almost any time without necessarily being related to a national economic trend. If it should be connected to outside economic factors, the resulting situation would be made much more perilous for everybody.

The extent of the possible chain-reaction under such circumstances as Calgary finds itself in is, perhaps, too little realized. But that is understandable considering the lack of specific knowledge which has been made available to the public on the advantages and benefits which new industries bring to communities.

An appreciation of the chain-reaction set up by a new industry in a community may, then, also serve the purpose of providing a clue to the widespread effect of any serious decline in such a large industry as the construction one.

An assessment of the benefits were made recently by Mr. T. A. Rice, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in an address at Chatham, Ontario. Quoting figures obtained in a survey made in the United States, in a section where industrial development and expansion are about the same as in Canada, Mr. Rice said that for every 100 new manufacturing workers moving in to a district, the over-all population of the community increased by 296; households increased by 112; 74 additional persons were given employment and school enrollment was increased by 51. In addition, retail sales increased by $360,000; personal income by $590,000; bank deposits by $270,000, four new retail establishments came into existence, passenger-car registrations increased by 107, truck and bus registrations by 38 and 70 new residential telephones were installed.

With all this coming from the arrival of 100 new manufacturing workers, what would the chain-reaction be if a slump occurred in reaction to it? It is a sobering thought but it is appalling and every effort to correct the situation must be given full public support.

Weekly Bible comment

REACHING OUT IS HALLMARK OF CHRISTIANITY

"Outreach" is a good word for the Christian church. It began by reaching out, and missionary enthusiasm and activity have been its deepest characterizations thru the ages.

Jesus reached out for His first disciples. He did not take those nearest at hand, or those among the officially religious, to whom a religious leader might naturally have appealed. He reached out into the common life, and took fishermen and others of lowly, but very active, occupations to be of the inner circle.

He wanted workers—those who would be fishers of men—reaching out and gathering others into the Christian way.

Even if the disciples had not been ready and willing to obey the Master's command to go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature, events gave them little choice. The persecution that broke out scattered them but they had learned well the Master's lesson, and everywhere they went they proclaimed the truth and won disciples.

The world needs as never before the saving, healing, purging power of Christianity and the church; and the church, if it will, can meet that need as never before. The church—that is, the people in it—must, in these days, manifest in new and powerful ways the "outreach" in which the church began.

Newly developed plastic wing for missiles

A newly developed plastic wing that eventually may have widespread use in the aircraft industry is being tested at the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory.

Research scientists at the lab came up with a fabricating technique for reinforced plastics. Its use is being turned to guided missile production.

The Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Co. is now experimenting with the CAL-developed eight-foot plastic wing in place of an aluminum structure in its KDM1 guided missile. The wing, according to CAL, weighs six percent less than its aluminum counterpart and requires about 30 percent fewer man-hours of fabrication.

Favorable tests have led the armed services to request further research on the unique wing, said to retain its strength well at temperatures up to 400 degrees. Most foamed plastics lose their strength at half that temperature.

The CAL process consists of foaming a low-density, high-strength plastic core inside a mould, then applying a skin of glass fabric impregnated with resin in a "sandwich" pressing treatment.

The Queen Goes Modren; Switches To Wallpaper

(Reprinted from "The Weekly News" — England)

The queen has yielded to the modern style for wallpapers instead of painted walls, which have been the rule in the private apartments of Buckingham Palace for nearly 30 years.

Her own business room, boudoir and bedroom are being hung with papers in quiet modern designs, peaches a neutral tinted background.

The "two-paper contrast" decorative scheme finds no favor with the queen and each of her rooms is hung with only one design paper.

The private royal apartments in the north-west block of the palace overlooking Green Park, and the nursery suite on the floor above are being completely decorated in off-white shades.

Being repaired too, are some of the state rooms on the first floor where guests at official receptions and dinner parties gather. Here the new patterns are the same as those chosen originally by Queen Mary for these rooms 45 years ago — a plain off-white in alternate strips of dark and light finish or surface. This design was turned out as an ideal background to set off formal evening dresses.

The royal paper designs are more exclusive than Paris fashion models. No other paper has been or will be printed with the same patterns as those chosen by the queen.

A HEALTHY CASE

Since the end of the war many Canadians have been bothered by the spectacle of one political party sitting serenely at the summit of the state, secure from effective opposition. Even staunch Liberals have asked themselves if this was the beginning of one-party government, and a threat to the democratic process.

It's becoming to look as if we can all relax thanks to the Financial Post. The solid Liberal facade is becoming wrinkled. The Liberal party may not lose the next election, but it's certain to run scared and that's what matters.

Above all, the Liberal party is going to have to climb down off its pedestal and act like an ordinary political party again. We're still a long way from the day when the party in power is re-elected automatically. There are still penalties at the polls for a party that loses its touch.

CURTAIN CELEBRATION

EDMONTON — (CP) — Public New Year's Eve celebration in hotels, dance halls and theatres in Alberta will have to end at midnight this year, because New Year's Day falls on a Sunday, provincial officials said today.

Both provincial regulations and the federal Lord's Day Act prohibit dancing and celebrations between midnight Saturday and 8 a.m. on the following Monday.

It is considered likely the province will take the same action it did the last time New Year's Day fell on a Sunday, in 1949. At that time, the regulations were amended to permit midnight frolics starting at 12:01 a.m. on the Monday.

PROGRESS WITH TOUGH PROBLEM

Take a look at those Unemployment Insurance offices. You won't see them so quiet again until next summer. But indications are they won't be so busy as last year, says The Financial Post.

Last winter unemployment hit a post-war high and loud was the rebuke about it all. In a country with Canada's climate some seasonal dislocation of employment is inevitable. On the other hand it is equally certain that something can be done to reduce winter layoffs.

For instance, seven big name relations have lined up behind the Canadian Construction Association. They represent labor, employer, employers, housebuilders and architects. And they are now studying ways to keep construction workers on their jobs during the cold weather months.

This is good news.

POWDERED EGGS

Improved dried egg product replaces frozen eggs now commonly used by bakers and food processors, reports The Financial Post.

Advantages include labor and time savings, lower freight costs in shipping, elimination of thawing and convenience of dry pre-measuring system. Comes in four varieties: a highly refined albumen product for angel food and chiffon cakes, a dried albumen product for bakery products requiring egg whites (meringues, etc.) a dried and fortified whole egg for yellow cakes and jelly rolls and a high solid yolk product for use in such sweet goods as Danish pastry and coffee cakes.

It will be established as an international historic site, some 20 miles southeast of Sarnia.

Repeat Vows At Twilight

At a twilight ceremony held recently in First Baptist Church, Calgary, vows were exchanged by Miss Jacqueline O'Bray and Wm. Petrunik. Rev. Dr. J. Gordon Jones O.B.E. officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon O'Bray of Calgary and the son of Mrs. John Petrunik of Coleman and the late Mr. Petrunik. Mixed autumn flowers decorated the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditional white bridal satin. Queen Anne lace outlined the neckline and the long, fitted bodice extended to a full skirt.

The long sleeves ended in lili-point. A band of lilies of the valley held her fingertip illusion net veil and she carried a colonial arrangement of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. John Pachkowski and Miss Sandra Harris attended the bride in frocks of nylon net over taffeta in shades of pink and blue respectively, with lace boleros to match. Mrs. Tachkowski carried deep pink carnations and apple blossoms, while Miss Harris had a bouquet of pale pink carnations and blue buds. Michelle Harris as flower girl wore a tiered dress of pale blue taffeta with a matching bonnet and carried a basket of sweetheart roses.

Best man was John Pachkowski, and ushers were Robert McKinney and Ronald Heuka. Remi O'Bray sang during the ceremony. At the reception at the Winston Community Hall, the toast to the bride was proposed by Jack Laidlaw.

For the wedding trip to Great Falls, the bride donned an imported burlesque linen suit topped with a pink cashmere coat, black accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

The couple will reside at 505 Northmount Drive in Calgary.

Fire Destroys Bellevue Garage

BELLEVUE — Fire of undetermined origin Monday afternoon razed a garage owned by Herb Newton of Bellevue, and did considerable damage to an adjacent workshop owned by Carl Bogen. A new 1955 Ford light delivery truck owned by Mr. New also received considerable damage as the roof of the truck, the windshield and window glass and paint on the vehicle were scorch by the intense heat.

When the fire was noticed Mr. Newton immediately removed the truck from the garage.

A large elk that had just been cleaned and stored in the garage was lost in the fire. So great was the heat from the fire that the side of Mr. Newton's home covered with brick siding was partially burned as well as some of the shingles on the roof of the home.

Insurance was carried on the truck and Mr. Newton's home. An estimate of the damage has not yet been determined. Members of the Bellevue volunteer fire brigade were soon on hand and their efficient work prevented the fire from spreading. Mr. Newton is the driver for the Lehighville Herald, carrying papers from Fort Macleod to the Pass towns daily.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT Jesus' gift is Life of the Spirit

"The raising of Lazarus from the dead," as recorded in John, the bringing to life from the dead of the son of the widow of Nain, in Luke, and the Resurrection of Jesus Himself are the only instances of bringing to life from the dead recorded in the Gospels.

In the case of the widow's son a plausible explanation might be that the boy was apparently dead, but actually in a trance. But in the case of Lazarus no such plausible explanation is possible, for the record specifically states that Lazarus had been dead four days and mortification had set in.

So the event as recorded is wholly and completely miraculous, with no explanation whatever but in the life-giving power of Christ. Why, then, with His life-giving power, did Jesus exercise it only in these instances?

Jesus Himself never set the miracle as being of primary importance. His supreme appeal was spiritual. To accept His words, to follow His example and to find new life through the Gospel of the grace of God—these purposes stand out as above all else.

The Gospels might easily have been compiled wholly of miraculous things, but it is evidence alike of their greatness and of their authenticity that Jesus stands out in their pages, not as a great magician, but as a great Saviour.

His supreme mission has not been to raise men from physical death to physical life, but to bring men from the death of sin to the life of righteousness and the joy and blessedness of the New Life in Him.

FOOTBALL MOVE

Eastern Canada football which turned pro on the playing fields just a few years ago, is showing signs now of "going pro" corporately as well. Control of this colorful million dollar plus sport-business appears to be switching from the dedicated and often amateurs in the front offices to full time paid administrators who can give the big business aspects of the game the attention they need.

Montreal Alouettes may be the only Big Four league team to make a profit this year, reports The Financial Post, and informed sources suggest that the Montreal team's corporate structure might be the cause. Alouettes are set up as a public corporation while the other three teams in the league, Toronto Argonauts, the Ottawa Roughriders and Hamilton Tiger Cats are non-profit private organizations.

UNBALANCED CANADA?

We are not developing our country to suit the needs of Canadians, stated D. W. Ambridge, president of Abitibi Power and Paper Co. in a Montreal Canadian Club address reported in The Financial Post.

The truth is that we are developing to a great extent as a source of raw materials to supply the needs of the citizens of the United States. There is only one thing with this state of affairs and that is that we will never become a well - rounded, self - confident nation if we continue to play the role of a raw material supplier.

I do not believe that it is an accident that we have no flag of our own and that we don't really know what our national anthem is. If we are somewhat confused and divided over these outward symbols of nationhood it is because the base on which our nation has so far been built is not broad enough and we are always apprehensive that the whole kaboodle will tip over.

There is a great danger that our nation will become overdeveloped in some respects and woefully underdeveloped in others.

There are many reasons for this danger. Among others we have the American tariff, the lack of hard money in the rest of the free world, the high standards of living which prevail in Canada and which prevent our goods from entering into many foreign markets.

A light oakrain hardwood in panels four feet wide and from four to sixteen feet in length is now being offered to householders for interior panelling. You can buy it from lumber dealers — and it is very low in price.

Newadays a housewife doesn't even have to wear an apron to wallpaper her home. All the messy pasting is eliminated with the new pre-pasted papers. Only "tools" necessary are a cellulose sponge and a pair of scissors.

QUEEN MOTHER FLIES TO LONDON—Queen Mother Elizabeth enters car at London Airport recently after flight from the Castle of Mey, on Scotland's remote north coast, to join her daughter, Princess Margaret. Both the Princess and the Queen Mother were at Clarence House when Peter Townsend came for a visit of about two hours.

STANDS ON HEAD—A porpoise stands on his head to take a tidbit from the hand of a diver at Miami's Seaquarium, one of the most popular attractions in the resort.

UNITED GREETING—Artist Antonio Frasconi shows his son, Pablo, three, cover which he has designed for the United Nations' Christmas card. Uruguayan-born Frasconi designed the greeting in New York City. Flags of the United Nations surround a polar projection of the world, symbol of the United Nations. "Season's Greetings", in five languages, will be imprinted within the folded card. Proceeds of card sales will go to U.N.'s Children's Fund.

BY HER OWN BOOTSTRAPS—"Monitor", experimental craft built under Naval contract, skims across Lake Mendota, Wis., on hydrofoils. The ladder-like devices supply lift in the same fashion as the wings of a plane. They raise the craft about 30 inches above the water when it is under sail. Monitor made a land speed of 30 miles per hour under a moderate (15 miles per hour) wind. Her trial speed beats that of the hitherto speed-queen of sail—the Catamaran.

PENSIVE FENCER—Blonde Traube Ebbert, noted Austrian fencer, who is competing for world championship honors at Rome. Entrants from 30 nations are scheduled for the title tests in foil, sabre and epee classes.

KRUPP RELEASED FROM JAIL—Harold Krupp, 39, brother of the steel magnate Alfred Krupp, holds a bouquet of flowers after entering west Germany with two train loads of other Germans released from Soviet jails recently. Russia has promised to release 9,626 Germans soon.

A PRESIDENTIAL WAVE—President Eisenhower, wearing dark glasses, waves from his bed on an open terrace at Fitzsimons Army Hospital. It is expected the President will be able to leave hospital in November.

NARROWING EXPERIENCE—Twenty-seven-year-old bush pilot who survived for 10 days perched precariously on the wing of an aircraft in an icy lake in the North West Territories. Lozie's companion, Capt. Joseph Cernak, who was injured in the forced landing died of exposure before rescuers found the aircraft at Beaver Lodge Lake.

FOR SHORT ORDERS—Mrs. Myrtle Gunsallus, of Fort Scott, Kan., puts this miniature of an old-fashioned range to good use. Its electrically heated oven is just the thing for making breakfast toast, and two-element top can be used for at-the-table cooking.

WHOLE FAMILY COMES TO DINNER—The Schusters' 17- or 18-yr. black-masked moosehounds shown above are only the tip of the iceberg. George Schuster, Jr., shown passing out bread at his Berea, Ohio, home, entertains at dinner for 40 or more raccoons each evening. Schuster fed one raccoon three years ago. Now all the brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts and cousins troop up each evening from Cleveland's Metropolitan Park for a handout. Even at one slice to a customer, Schuster's furry guests go through about 50 loaves a week. A local bakery supplies stale bread for the feasts at a nominal price.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

SECOND MEETING

—By ANNA E. WILSON

VAL stopped dusting out the pigeon holes long enough to glance at David Roth's lumber mill backed up against a blaze of purple and brown. She opened the window wider to let in the sun. The smell of pines from across the river made her think of young Dave Roth. She sighed painfully.

The phone rang. It was Dave's cousin, Claire. She was excited. "Dave's coming back, Val. The company's moving its headquarters. Come to dinner tonight. And please wear that green dress with the gold belt, Dave loves it."

Val replaced the receiver, her hand shaking. Tonight she'd see Dave Roth. Even when she calmed down enough to sort letters, her heart was thumping.

Her hands still full of letters, she took another glance at the lumber mill and now the sun fairly danced on the river and the maples were pure gold. She finished sorting the letters in her hand right down to the last one. She stared at it idly.

Mrs. David Roth. It couldn't have been plain.

She put the letter carefully in an empty hole and went on working numbly. The post office was quiet. At the noon whistle, she closed the window and sat staring at Dave Roth's mill. Two girls entered, giggling. Seeing the closed window, they took it for granted that the office was deserted.

Polly Rodgers was all agog.

Venezuela best export market, Canadian eggs

This year, as last, Venezuela has been Canada's most important export market for shell eggs, according to the Poultry Products Marketing Report.

However, the report states, exports to Venezuela this year have been only 1,900,000 dozen as against 2,700,000 dozen in the same period a year ago. Total Canadian shell egg exports to Venezuela last year were 3,200,000 dozen.

The report continues: "The decline in exports can be largely attributed to competition from the United States, the Netherlands and Denmark where 1955 egg production is expected to exceed that of 1954. Production in the United States in 1955 is expected to be about one percent larger than last year; in Denmark two percent and the Netherlands 12 percent."

"The Netherlands and Denmark are, at the present time, the major egg-exporting countries of the world. Indications are that they will continue to compete in the Venezuela market for some time to come."

Good markets "South American countries should continue to be good markets for shell eggs. Governments in these countries are now promoting their poultry industries, but it will undoubtedly take considerable time for these programs to become effective. At the present time, the majority of eggs produced in South America are produced on small farms from domestic breeds."

"There is little fluctuation in egg production from year to year and the development of commercial egg production has tended to be slow."

"In view of the fact that Venezuela, a hard currency area, can be expected to remain an egg importing country for some time, Canadian eggs should continue to find a ready market there as long as they compete with other egg exporting countries."

The CIO was formed in 1935 under the leadership of John L. Lewis.

"She came in with Dave Roth on the noon train. Blonde and just the right kind of figure." She dropped to a whisper. "They say he was crazy about Val. When he went away, I wonder how Val will take it?"

Tying a scarf about her head with cold fingers, Val knew how she would take it. She'd wear her green dress with the gold belt and—but somehow she couldn't see herself smiling at Dave Roth's wife. She couldn't bear it.

It was scarcely a year ago that Dave had come to work at the mill. Dave's father had a dozen small plants across the country and this was one of them. She'd been working in the mill office helping Peter Rielle, the manager. Peter was due for a long vacation. She'd been bent over typing when he came in bringing Dave with him.

"This is Dave Roth, Val. He's taking over while I'm away." She'd looked up right into Dave's eyes. She'd been conscious of a large brown hand in which her arm was smothered.

They'd both loved the smell of fresh-cut wood and pine needles that drifted through the window. When she told him about Steve, he'd exploded.

"But, Val, it's true that you and Steve have been going together since you were kids but that's no reason why you should feel you have to stick to him because you're sorry for him. Accidents happen every day and Steve would be the last person to want you to be unhappy."

She'd taken him to the hospital and the minute their eyes met over Steve's wheel chair, she'd known it was all over.

Steve's love and trust shown plainly in the eyes that followed every move she made. He confided in Dave. "It isn't worth it, Val. I wouldn't have the strength to fight on. Tomorrow's the tenth operation."

Dave had wired for a manager to take over and left the next day for company headquarters. She'd taken this job in the post office. She'd had only one letter from Dave—when Steve had died six months ago. She'd felt that Dave was giving her time to get over Steve's death tactfully.

Outside, Val ran into Phil Cross. Phil carried her tray in the lunchroom. He scolded her mildly. "It's time you went out more. Ever since Steve died, you've been moping." His kind face twisted into a frown. "Seems to me that if Dave Roth really loved you, he'd have done something about it. Why not forget about it all and let me take you to a show tonight?"

Phil loves me, Val thought numbly. She gathered up her purse and gloves. "I'll let you know later. I want to think things over, Phil."

She was thinking it over at mid-afternoon. The letter lay uncalled for. Staring again at the river, Val was thinking of another letter. Steve's letter. She hadn't got it until after Steve died.

"I knew," Steve had written, "it had happened to you and Dave the minute you came into the hospital. I'd have spoken then, Val, but I knew that if you married Dave thinking you'd hurt me there would have been a flaw in your happiness. I knew then that it would only be a few months at the most and Dave isn't the kind to love lightly."

Steve had loved so much. Had understood so much. Had been right about Dave. Was that letter just a part of a nightmare? She took it out and read over the address. Mrs. David Roth. Blonde with a nice figure.

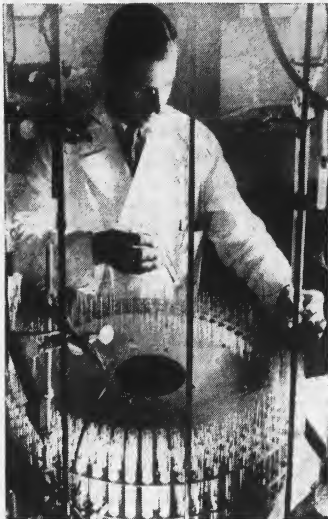

Her hands hesitated between the suit and the green dress. If she went out with Phil tonight, he'd ask her to marry him. He was kind and honest. Her hands ran smoothly over the suit. In the pocket something crackled. It was Steve's letter. Steve hadn't blamed her for loving Dave. He had tried to smooth the way of her happiness.

The green dress made her hair look leaf brown and her eyes like spring water. In the doorway of Claire's living room, her courage faltered.

Claire's voice steadied her. "You're late, Val. We're all waiting." Across the room, her eyes found Dave's. He smiled broadly. "Come over here, Val, I've someone to show you."

Val was conscious of smooth shining hair and gay eyes. She's older than she seems, her mind registered. Then Dave's voice cut through the fog in her brain. "What do you think, Val? Dad's moving his headquarters here, lock, stock and barrel. He's coming tomorrow but I brought Eleanor along to help pick out houses. Val... this is Mrs. David Roth... my step-mother."

ENDLESS BATTLE OF SCIENCE—Abel Pol, technician with the British Columbia Research Council, works on an antidote for the marine teredo, a worm that bores into wooden ships, wharves and logs. It is one of the many projects carried out by the 50 scientists at the B.C. Research Council.

Canada to help marine study

Two vessels from the Federal Oceanographic Station at St. Andrews, N.B., will participate in the International Geophysical Year.

Canada's contribution to the marine phase of the international project will probably be confined to the East Coast, according to Dr. D. C. Rose of the National Research Council, chairman of Canada's International Geophysical Year committee.

Among the significant problems to be investigated are the nature and extent of deep ocean currents, the effect of deep and superficial ocean currents on meteorology, and the nature of tides in the Arctic.

Dr. Rose said that tide measuring apparatus would be installed as far north as Resolute Bay to study the effect of tidal pressures under the ice and to determine how the northern ice mass affects the mean ocean level of the world.

More than one half of the fresh water area of the world is in Canada.

Further growth in 4-H membership

Along with more widespread public interest, membership in 4-H club work is mounting annually and this year established a new record in Canada of 72,784 enrolled in 4,502 clubs—an increase of 4,071 members and 467 clubs over 1954.

While eight of the 10 provinces reported higher membership, Saskatchewan, with a number of newly organized grain, beef and garden clubs, had the greatest individual increase of 2,025 members. In addition, 4-H membership in Saskatchewan has grown from 7,067 in 1953 to 11,966 in 1955, or a general increase during the last two years of 68.3 percent.

From the national standpoint girls' clothing clubs continue to lead in numbers with 1,083, followed by garden with 869, beef 656 and dairy 593. Average age of the 72,784 members in 1955 is 13.2 and the average membership per club is 14.7. Of the total membership, boys exceed the girls by 640.

Britain plans 'double-bubble' 105 passenger turbo airliner

Britain has disclosed its answer to the latest American jet passenger plane designs, a "double-bubble" turbo-prop transport that carries 105 passengers at 425 miles per hour.

Vickers-Armstrong released the design and British European Airways announced the first orders for the double-decker Vanguard, immediately dubbed the "double-bubble" because of its two-deck design.

The Vanguard will be built by the same firm that developed the original turbo-prop Viscount airliner. The Viscount is operated by Trans-Canada Airlines on several routes.

Peter Masfield, chief executive officer of BEA, said the Vanguard will carry 93 to 105 passengers, according to class, and will initially cruise at 400 miles per hour. He said development was expected to extend the speed to 425 miles per hour.

Lord Douglas of Kirtlehead, chairman of BEA, announced that the first plane would be delivered late in 1959 or early in 1960.

Douglas said the four-engined Vanguard was designed to BEA specifications and could be developed so it has a range of 2,500 miles. He said, however, it would be used on BEA's European routes, which are operated on 500-mile sectors.

Douglas said the Vanguard would "prove even more economical and attractive" to operate than the Viscount which is rated one of the most successful planes in the industry.

A Vickers spokesman said a new version of the Viscount, called a Viscount 800, would be built at the company's plants in Britain. He said the 800 would carry 65 to 70 passengers compared with 40 to 53 on the Viscounts and would have greater cargo capacity.

The spokesman was asked whether there was any prospect of U.S. or Canadian airlines ordering the new type planes. He said that "naturally, we have kept potential buyers fully informed about our plans."

Alberta farm income lower

Farm income in Alberta was nearly $3,000,000 lower during the first eight months of this year than in the same period of 1954, the Alberta bureau of statistics reported.

Total farm income from sales of grain, livestock, dairy and poultry products for the year up to Sept. 1 was $212,524,000, compared with $215,425,000 in the same period a year ago.

During August, 1955, farm income totalled $16,109,000, down $2,200,000 from the August, 1954, total of $18,309,000.

Largest drop in income for the eight-month period was in the sale of livestock where farmers received $94,182,000 in 1955 compared with $96,428,000 in the same period of 1954. Grain income in the period in 1955 was $96,459,000, down from the $97,658,000 during that time in the previous year.

Incomes from dairy and poultry products were higher. Dairy product sales brought farmers $17,596,000 during the first eight months this year, compared with $17,242,000 in the same period of 1954 while poultry sales in 1955 were $4,289,000, compared with $4,097,000 in 1954.

FAIR ENOUGH

The U.S. Army will pay President Eisenhower's medical expenses while he was in the Fitzsimons Army Hospital in Denver, Colo. However, it billed him $1.10 per day for his food, according to Army officials.
